FRIDAY, November 22, 1745.

BERLIN, Auguſt 17. N. S.

THE reigning Prince of Deſſau ſet out Yeſterday for Kopenich, in order to review the Prince of Pruſſia's Regiment of Horſe, and two others of Foot, beſides one Battalion of Grenadiers, and the two Regiments of Huſſars, which will altogether reinforce the Magdeburg Corps; 68 Carriages full of warlike Stores are going thither, and yeſterday 15 Pieces of Cannon were embarked in Boats for that Place. The Commiſſary of the Hoſpitals has alſo taken the ſame Road. They are raiſing ſome new Companies of Huntſmen, and it is believed that a Corps of Troops will be poſted upon the Frontiers of Luſatia, whilſt the others are acting on the Side of Magdeburg and Hall. The Gates of Brandenburg and Potſdam are palliſadoed, and 400 Men employed thereupon. The Burghers are exerciſing, and are preparing for a vigorous Defence in caſe of an Attack.

Gloſgow, Auguſt 12. 'Tis talked here, and 'tis ſaid with Authority, that 300 Men, with a large Quantity of Ammunition and Arms, are landed in the Iſle of Sky, and that ſome of the Clans have joined them.

By Orders from General Cope, two Companies marched from this Place on Saturday Morning, and Yeſterday Morning were followed by two more for Sterling, where we hear a Camp is to be formed, and where ſeveral Regiments are already arrived.

Auguſt 19. Accounts of the Invaſion vary ſo much, that we are at a Loſs what to give our Readers as Truth.

On the one Hand, we have ſeen Letters dated the 12th Inſtant from the Highlands, wrote by Gentlemen of Diſtinction, and who might have Acceſs to know; wherein they ſay, That they are credibly informed that the young Pretender, with 500 Men, was landed at Aroſaick, a Place near Loch Modiart, on the Borders of Argyleſhire. As a further Confirmation, there was one——— in Town laſt Week, who told, that he had been at Roſneath, where he made Oath, That he had ſeen ſome Hundreds there, moſtly Gentlemen. He is ſince gone aboard the Furnace Sloop of War, to pilot her to the Place. 'Tis likewiſe talked, and ſaid to come from good Hands, That the Earl of Marſhal, and the Marquis of Tullibardine, are amongſt them; but that none of the Clans have join'd them.

On the other Hand it ſeems ſurprizing, that ſince the 20th of July, the Day on which they are ſaid to land, ſuch a Number of Men ſhould be at ſo ſmall a Diſtance, and we have no certain Intelligence of them, tho' the Place where they are ſaid to be is not far from Fort William; and agreeable to this is the Report of one M'Leod, who paſſed thro' this Place on Saturday laſt, from Sir Alexander M'Donnald and the Laird of M'Leod, to his Grace the Duke of Argyle, to know when it would be agreeable to his Grace that theſe Gentlemen ſhould wait on him. He left Skie on Monday laſt, where they had heard of no Invaſion, nor had ſeen any Ships on the Coaſt. He ſays he was obliged, by Streſs of Weather, to put aſhore in the Sound of Mull, where he heard a flying Report that ſome Men were landed; but that they were in the ſame Uncertainty about them there that we are here.

A little Time muſt diſcover what is Truth in this Matter; and, in the mean while, we leave it to our Readers to determine as they think beſt.

P. S. We have juſt now received Advice from Irving, that by Expreſs arrived there from Kirkcudbright, they are informed by Mr. Millar, Maſter of the Irvine of Irvine from Gottenburgh, that on the 9th Current, lying at Anchor at the Callochſtone Innerſound of Sky, with two Eaſt Country Veſſels, and the Princeſs Mary of Renfrew, all three loaded with Meal, a Ship of 18 Guns, under Engliſh Colours, came in there, and order'd all the four Maſters on board; then ſent his Boat on board of them, and hoiſting French Colours, made Prizes of them all. They are all ranſomed; the Irvine at 650 l. the others about 250 l. or 300 l. each, with this remarkable Condition, That the three Meal Veſſels are obliged to diſcharge their Cargoes in any Part between Rue, Ardmuchy, and Glengle, for which they are to produce a Certificate from a Gentleman not named, otherwiſe to pay double Ranſom.

This came by Expreſs from Irvine.

We hear that 600 Men are ſhipped from Ireland for Scotland.

Newcaſtle, Auguſt 28. Extract of a Letter from Edinburgh to a Gentleman in this Town, Aug. 22.

"The Situation of Affairs ſeems to be in a very bad State; an Invaſion in this Part of the Iſland ſeems to be begun; theſe three Weeks paſt we have had the Report of the Pretender's Son being landed in the Highlands; and frequently contradicted; but now we are more convinced of the Truth of it: The Accounts this Day are, that theſe Diſturbers of our Peace are increaſed in the Highlands to the Number of 2 or 3000, and have taken a Capt. of Guiſe's Regiment at Fort Auguſtus; and that General Cope with a large Body of Men, has gone towards Creiff, in order to attack them. It is reported that the Highlanders have taken two Companies of General St. Clair's Regiment, that were going to Fort William, in order to reinforce that Garriſon. We alſo hear, that ſeveral of the Chiefs of the Highland Clans have promiſed to give Aſſiſtance to ſuppreſs thoſe Diſturbers of our Peace. It is alſo reported, that thoſe Invaders who have ſet up their Standard, have [illegible] to Fort William. Since we have no Foot Regiment in this Place, there are two Troops of Horse ordered to be quartered in this City.

Extract of a Letter from the same Place, and of the same Date, to a Merchant of this Town.

"It is pretty certain, that there is a Rising in the North, but presume they are not very numerous as yet. Sir John Cope is gone to the Highlands with 1800 Men, to disperse them before they come to any Head. This Day there is a Letter from the Lord George Murray, intimating that M'Donnald of Cappoch, at the Head of a Party of M'Donalds and Camerons, had attacked two new-levied Companies of General St. Clair's Regiment, that were going from Fort Augustus to Fort William, and had killed five Men, wounded Capt. Scott, and made the rest Prisoners."

Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman in Edinburgh, to his Friend in this Town, dated August 24.

"Two Companies of the Royal Scots are taken Prisoners on their March to Fort William. A Man that came from the Northward last Night made Affidavit, that he saw ten Ships land 3000 Men, with white Cloaths faced with blue and red; and also landed some Cannon, and the Day after encamped, and a large Body of Highlands joined them. General Cope is gone to attack them with 3000 Men.

On Sunday Morning General Blakeney passed thro' this Town, in his Way for the Camp at Sterling."

Hague, August 17. Our Accounts from Munich seem to intimate, that either the Court of Vienna undertook too hastily for the Subsidies promised to his Electoral Highness of Bavaria, or the State of Affairs is so altered, that these Subsidies cannot be so easily supplied by the maritime Powers as they promised some Time ago; which will be attended with vast Inconveniency in that Electorate, where there was always a strong Party against the separate Peace, and the new System. The Munster Troops are said to be going into Quarters, which is not well relished here; but our Minister has Orders to tell their Elector, that the maritime Powers expect from him an immediate and punctual Performance of his Treaties; in which Case they are willing to comply with his Demands: But after so many Disappointments in Regard to these Troops, they could be no longer put off with good Words.

But notwithstanding these Disappointments, the States General are far from slacking their Zeal for the common Cause, or neglecting any Measure that may be serviceable thereto. This appears manifestly from the Declaration made, on the Part of the States, by the Baron d'Aylva to the Bishop of Wurtzburg, amounting to this: That their High Mightinesses not only regarded him as a very wise and powerful Prince, but as one of the warmest and most zealous Patriots in Germany; and that therefore they depended chiefly upon him for putting in Motion that great Wheel upon which the approaching Election must turn, and with it the Fate of Germany. That, in short, a Resolution must be obtained of the States of the Circle of Franconia, to march 20,000 Men to become the Centre of any Army of Observation; which once in Motion, would enable the Allies to act effectually for themselves, and, in spite of their late Advantages, compell the Ministers of France to a Peace on good Terms. In this Measure (the most essential in this Conjuncture) the maritime Powers are equally earnest; and if they succeed, a sudden and lasting Change in Affairs will ensue. How far my Advices may differ from those in our Gazettes, I cannot say, because I seldom read them, as drawing my Intelligence from other Sources; but you may be assured that Events will constantly justify the Informations that from time to time I send you.

Extract of a Letter from Amsterdam, to a foreign Minister at the Hague, August 21. "The Resolution which 'tis said the King of Sweden has taken to go to Cassel does not proceed from the Necessity there is of that Monarch's Presence in Germany, but from quite a different Reason, supposing that this Journey actually takes Place. For more than six Months past the King of Sweden has had the Mortification to see, that a great Part of the Grandees of the Court, and even those who were under the highest Obligations to his Majesty, seem to desert him, and to make their Court without Reserve to the Prince Successor. The Princess Ulrich his Consort, has in such manner captivated the Minds of most People, that she has actually gained an unbounded Credit; she has the principal Hand in the Transaction of all important Affairs. All Dispatches are very exactly communicated to her, and Copies of every Thing are given her. In short, one may truly say, that this Princess reigns before the Coronation of the Prince her Consort. On the other hand, the Influence, or rather the Credit, of the Court of Berlin is so greatly increased in Sweden, that every Thing there is directed by it, not according to the Views of the reigning King, but according those of his Prussian Majesty. The Prince Royal is, 'tis said, so prejudiced in the Favour of the Princess his Spouse, that he in no Respect opposes the Ascendant she has gained at Court and in the Public; tho' few People say any Thing relating to this Subject. The Generality of Mankind are however of Opinion, that if his Swedish Majesty has Cause to be discontented at the Slights put upon him, the Prince Royal is well pleased that most People think the Princess his Consort is rather the Occasion of it than himself. Be this however as it will, it is far from being certain that his Swedish Majesty pushes things so far as to go into the Territories of Hesse, for fear lest a too long Absence from his Kingdom of Sweden should cause an absolute Change of the Affairs there.

From the LONDON GAZETTE.

Dantzick, August 4. Dagenaer the Swede, being forced to leave the Port of Pillau, put 25 of his Men on board of the Dispatch, whereof James Meody was formerly Master, on board of which Ship he had mounted 20 Guns, and commanded her himself; he divided the rest of his Men in three other Ships. All four Ships being carried the 30th past out of Pillau Harbour, by Prussian Pilots, into Pillau Road. Dagenaer stood with his Ship out to Sea, expecting that the other three would follow him. But one James Lamb, Master of the Hope, George Dougal, Master of the Jannet, and some Masters and Sailors of British Ships, lying in Pillau, having manned Boats, rowed off the Road to observe Dagenaer's Motion; and seeing him at some Distance from the other Ships, Capt. Lamb row'd towards his Ship the Hope, which the Swedes on board of her seeing, abandon'd the Ship, took to the Boat and row'd aboard the other two Ships; so that on Capt. Lamb's boarding of her, he cut the Cable, hoisted the English Flag, and set sail directly. Capt. Dougal seeing Capt. Lamb's Success, made what haste he could towards his Ship, and the third Boat with English Masters and Sailors, row'd at the same time towards the third Ship the Prevention, which the Swedes so soon as they were aware of abandon'd both Ships, took to their Boat and row'd ashore, Capt. Dougal took possession of his and the Master and Sailors of the Prevention: both set Sail directly and followed Capt. Lamb, all the 3 Ships arrived in our Road the 31st past. Yesterday we had a Report in Town, that Dagenaer's Men having forced him to come to an Anchor on the Pomeran Coast, with the Dispatch the fourth Ship, which he commands, they all left him except 4 Men; so we hope the next News will be, that he has abandoned his Ship likewise.

Extract of a Letter from the Hague, August 17.

Upon the coming out of the Report which has been current here, that his Prussian Majesty was on the Point of entering into an Accommodation with her Majesty of Hungary, Mr. Ano-nce, the Pruſſian Miniſter to the States General, made by Order of the King his Maſter the following Declaration to their High Mightineſſes; viz. That his Pruſſian Majeſty was as much inclined to Peace as it was poſſible; That he was even ready to give up ſome Part of his juſt Pretenſions, in order to obtain it, ſo much he had the Repoſe of the Empire at Heart; but that he would have their High Mightineſſes to know at the ſame Time, that whatever might be the Conſequence of the War, he would continue it with all his Forces, rather than ever conſent to make a ſeparate Peace, excluſive of France; becauſe he was deſirous that all Europe ſhould feel the good Effects of it, which could not be without comprehending his Allies therein, who would ſtill keep in the Fire of the War, and their Neighbours in Fears and Agitation.

We have Advice, by private Letters from Hanover, that it it does not appear there that the Negotiation concerning the Heſſian Troops, is yet concluded, as has been inſerted in ſeveral of the foreign News papers. Theſe Letters ſay, on the contrary, that Prince William of Heſſe has excuſed himſelf from making any abſolute Agreement upon this ſubject, before having ſettled with his Swediſh Majeſty what is proper to be done in reſpect to this Negotiation. 'Tis ſaid, that the greateſt Difficulties which ſtand in the way of Accompliſhing this Affair, relate to the Subſidy, and the Employment that ſhall be made of the Heſſian Troops.

Extract of a private Letter from Frankfort dated Auguſt 8.

We are of late troubled here with a new Species of Politicians, who, ſince they find that there are no Preſſes which will expedite their Labours, are oblig'd to circulate their Works in Manuſcript. Amongſt theſe, there is a certain Baron, who dates his Anecdotes from Cologn, though it is well enough known that he writes them here. He is a very ingenious Man, has made the Tour of Germany, and appears to be well furniſhed with Intelligence. He profeſſes himſelf a true Patriot, but many ſuſpect him notwithſtanding, of being in the Intereſt, at leaſt, if not in the Eye of Pruſſia. You will by this Time conceive clearly the Character, and, perhaps gueſs ſomewhat as to the Perſon of the Man. As you have veſted me to procure for you every thing that is curious in this Part of Germany, I ſhall, for the future, ſend his Letter, regularly. You may, if you pleaſe, make this part of my Letter public, that neither you nor I may be made anſwerable for the Contents of his Epiſtles; which I dare promiſe will always entertain, and ſometimes inſtruct.

Hague, Sept. 16, N. S. An Eſtafette arriveſt here this Morning from Francfort, with an Account of the Great Duke's Nomination, on Monday laſt, to the Imperial Dignity, by all the Electoral Suffrages preſent; the Ambaſſadors of Brandenburg and Palatine having volantarily withdrawn the Evening before, not to aſſiſt at the Aſſembly of Election.

Sept. 17, N. S. The News of the Great Duke's Elevation to the Imperial Dignity, that arrived here Yeſterday, has ſpread an univerſal Joy over all Ranks and Stations here, almoſt beyond Example; even the loweſt Mob giving public Demonſtrations of their Satisfaction, by making Bonfires of what matter they could draw together, not ſparing their very Furniture. The French Poſt of this Day has brought the News, that the Citadel of Tortona ſurrendered the 3d. Inſtant; the Garriſon not to ſerve againſt France or Spain for one Year.

Paris, Auguſt 16, O. S. It is reckoned that the Breſt Squadron put to Sea a few Days ago. Our Letters from Madrid inform us, that the Squadron equipped at Ferrol muſt be at Sea before now. Theſe two Squadrons are to ſteer Weſtward, and join in a certain Latitude. We ſee here a long Relation concerning the Arrival of the Pretender's Son in Scotland, with a Liſt of above 600 of his Adherents, and a Declaration addreſſed to the Nobility and Gentry of Scotland.

Letters from Rochfort inform us, that the Engliſh have brought to that Place 1500 Men that were at Cape Breton, and that the reſt of our People in that Colony are expected in a ſhort Time. A Report is ſpread that the Britiſh were lying before Quebeck, which cannot hold out long; ſo that we are in a fair Way of loſing all Canada. The Pretender's eldeſt Son is, we hear, landed in Scotland, where he only waits for the Succours that are to be ſent him by Sea, in order to enter upon Action.

LONDON, September 5.

By private Letters from the Hague of the 10th Inſtant, N. S. we have Advice, that the States received the News that Morning, that Nieuport ſurrendered to the French the 5th Inſtant, and that the Garriſon were made Priſoners of War.

By the laſt Letters from Manheim it appears, that the new Scheme for ſubverting the Power of Germany is thus laid: The Prince of Anhalt Deſſau is to advance with all Diligence to Francfort, with 30,000 Pruſſians; the Prince of Conti is to repaſs the Rhine with 60,000 French, and offer Battle to the Grand Duke; while the new Marſhal de la Farre, with 30,000 French and Palatine Troops, enters the Electorate of Mentz, and either beſieges or bombards it's Capital. It is added, that theſe three Armies were all actually in motion.

All the laſt Letters from Paris are full of the Conſternation with which all Ranks of People are ſtruck, at the News of the Captures made by the Engliſh in the Eaſt Indies; which they confeſs amount to upwards of fifty Millions of their Money, or two Millions and upwards of ours; which has made ſuch an Impreſſion on their Actions, that they are already ſunk to 1000, and are daily falling.

Extract of a Letter from Edinburgh, dated Auguſt 31.

'We are certain of the Pretender's Son being near Fort William with 2000 Men, well arm'd. We have this Day an Account, that the Marquis of Tullibardine has, with a ſtrong Party of 500 Men, taken poſſeſſion of his Brother's Houſe (the Duke of Athol) at Blair. The Duke of Athol was obliged to go to Edinburgh with his Family. The Pretender's Son, has ſent a Meſſage to the Provoſt of Perth, to deſire that he may be proclaimed King of the Land. The People of Athol, who are very numerous, it is ſaid, will join the Marquis of Tullibardine. The Chevalier's Son was to dine at Blair of Athol this Day with the ſaid Marquis. We have a Report here, that General Blakeney, is taken by the Rebels.'

The above was taken out of a Gentleman's Letter, who received it Yeſterday from his Correſpondent at Edinburgh; however we are informed that there are Letters from General Blakeney, of 31ſt of Auguſt, by the ſame Poſt, importing that he was on the Road to the Army: ſo that as that Part of the Letter proves falſe, we muſt ſuſpend our Belief of the whole until we have better Authority, it being probable they have as many Reports in Edinburgh as we have here: and it is natural for a Gentleman to communicate the ſame to his Correſpondents.

'Tis reported that his Majeſty's Ship the Fox has taken a French Ship on the Coaſt of Scotland, with 75 Officers on board, with Arms and Accoutrements for 3000 Men, and had ſent her into Lieth, which News we hope will be confirm'd by the next Poſt.

There is Advice, that 1500 of the Dutch Troops from Williamſtadt, being the firſt Embarkation, are arrived at Leith; ſo that it is hoped that the Rebels will be put between two Fires.

We hear an Order is ſent from his Majeſty and the Privy Council, for the well affected Clans in the Scotch Highlands, to arm themſelves and their Dependants for his Majeſty's Service, which they could not do without this Order, it being declared Treaſon by a late Act of Parliament.
